Short Biography (max 200 words)

I'm 46 and I'm French. After studies in history and museography, my first job was in Art and Industry Museum of Saint-Etienne to coordinate mediation devices between three collections which constituted the development of the city (weapons, ribbons and bicycles). After that, I worked for four years as a consultant in tourism and cultural engineering. Since this period, I'm convinced by the link between cultural sites as museums and tourism to participate at the development of territories. In 2006 as project manager, I followed all the steps of the creation of Great War Museum in Meaux (Paris region) and I became the director at the opening in 2011. Today, this museum is one of the most important about this theme in Europe. In 2016, I became the director of MuseoParc Alesia in Burgundy. This is the place of the siege and battle of Alesia in 52 BC between roman army and gallic troops during Gallic Wars. MuseoParc Alesia was created in 2012 with two sites to visit: museum and gallo-roman remains. The aim was to grow up the audience and to connect this museum with the inhabitants. With the team, we managed to do that just before pandemic's years.

Motivation letter and engagements/ orientations for the IC next term 2022-2025 (max 200 words)

With my first participation at the ICOM General Conférence in Kyoto in 2019, I realized how it's important to participate in international committee. I'm sure that it's useful to share museum's experiences and good practices in exhibition, mediation, collections, etc. In each country, historical and archaeological museums have responsibility with what they must tell and it's important to have a community to express difficulties and solutions. I consider that I'm generalist as museum's director. I have a global view of visitors' experience and it's very important to never forget them. In a world of fake news and manipulation of history or science, museums have a role to play to help societies to be better. That's why I want to be involved in ICOM and ICMAH.

I think I can help ICMAH to be better well known with a regular newsletter to its members and a visibility on professional social media. ICMAH can relay new exhibitions or original projects to be known by others. Each country has its network of information, but ICMAH could be THE international network between us. I will be very honoured to join the board for that.

Motivation letter and engagements/ orientations for the IC next term 2022-2025 (max 200 words)

As ICMAH is one of the oldest ICOM international committee that I’m honored to be one of its respected board for three years now. I’m following ICOM ICMAH activities since 2018, and I wish to continue working effectively with ICOM ICMAH family for the next round to extend the committee's contribution to the ICOM network and to the museum world.

I have a strong passion for cultural work and specially museum activities as related to history and archaeology. I’m willing to participate effectively to numerous tasks of the Board, in addition to working on the organization of the Annual Meetings and conferences, workshops, social networking, and publication. Moreover, I’m eager to creating an active collaboration between ICOM ICMAH and other national and international committees. The museums work within the MENA area will be on spot in the next few years, this inspires me to create reliable network between ICOM ICMAH, the new boards of ICOM Arab and ICOM Egypt.

In the meantime, the committee is planning to provide consultancy services for museums institutions, workshops, and trainings for museum professionals in different fields that I’m able to work on it besides the annual conferences organization.

I am assistant-Professor at the laboratory of prehistory and protohistory at the Cheikh Anta Diop University in Dakar. As an archaeologist and specialist in African heritage, my research focuses on the dynamics of ancient settlement in West Africa and the archaeological heritage in Senegal. We co-direct international research projects on the prehistory of eastern Senegal, megalithism in Senegambia, and the shell middens of the Saloum Islands in Senegal. As vice-president of ICOM-Senegal and in partnership with the Direction of cultural Heritage, we are permanent members of the scientific committees of several museums in Senegal, whose permanent exhibition rooms on Africa, the cradle of humanity, were written and mounted by us and our associates.

I teach prehistoric archaeology and African archaeological heritage at the Department of History and at the Higher Institute of Arts and Cultures (ISAC) of the Cheikh Anta Diop University of Dakar in Senegal.

Motivation letter and engagements/ orientations for the IC next term 2022-2025 (max 200 words)

In accordance with the challenges of global change in museums, particularly those of archaeology and history, are called upon to adapt and reinvent themselves in order to meet the expectations of the public. As an archaeologist by training and profession, but as treasurer of ICMAH for the last three years (2019-2022) and vice-president of ICOM-Senegal (2017-2022), we are well equipped to provide adequate answers that can be justified by our experience.

You will note in particular that as treasurer of ICMAH (2019-2022) and vice-president of ICOM-Senegal (2017-2022), I have had to take on many responsibilities, particularly that of participating and organizing exhibitions, local and international meetings and managing the financial accounts of ICMAH with transparency and rigor. The result was as good as my ambitions since the control of the annual budget for ICMAH was approved by the SAREC and the financial managers of ICOM every year. This success is due to the perseverance, but also to our sense of transparency, communication and the dynamism of the members of the board.

I am confident that our expertise in these areas will be of great interest to the ICMAH members in the five continents for the renewal of my candidacy for the board.

Short Biography (max 200 words)

I studied prehistoric and protohistoric archaeology in Germany, specializing later in preventive archaeology in France. My work combines archaeological research and heritage management. Since 2012, I've been working at the ITAIPU Guaraní Land Museum, located in Hernandarias, Paraguay, supervising and managing the anthropological collection and research initiatives throughout Paraguay. I have written several articles for scientific journals and most recently a book about the prehispanic period in Paraguay. I collaborate regularly with colleagues and museums around the world, creating joined research projects, coordinating national and international exhibitions, conferences, etc.

Motivation letter and engagements/ orientations for the IC next term 2022-2025 (max 200 words)

Having participated from the events organized by ICMAH, I am aware of the professionalism and the quality of the content provided by the committee, as well as the great professionals that are involved in the group. Therefore I would like to contribute with my work in my experience, especially when it comes to expand and encourage the membership of colleagues in the American continent, even organizing conferences and meetings here in South America. Now that the new museum definition is being discussed, I think the Latin-American perspective is very important, because it includes views beyond the material aspect, especially historical and archaeological museums, whose collections are deeply connected with the testimonies of indigenous people, who are often not or misrepresented in traditional museums. I would like to be part of this transition, bringing new perspectives to decolonization and integration.

Lettre de motivation et engagements / orientations pour le prochain mandat 2022-2025 (200 mots maximum)

Etudiant en archéologie, j'ai une forte passion pour les activités culturelles et muséales. Les expositions muséales sont pour moi des occasions éducatives qui me permettent d'être en interaction avec l'élément culturel. Engagé dans les activités muséales, je suis régulièrement sollicité par le bureau régional de mon pays pour les préparatifs des différentes Journée Internationales des Musées (JIM).

Ma formation en archéologie favorise mon choix de l'ICMAH comme principal comité international. Mon orientation pour le prochain mandat 2022-2025 est de favoriser l'installation des musées archéologiques en Afrique francophone afin de valoriser les trouvailles ancienne et de contribuer à l'éducation de la génération juvénile. L'orientation suivante est de permettre aux archéologues africains de bénéficier des bourses de perfectionnement en gestion du patrimoine, car généralement en Afrique, par besoin de main d'œuvre les archéologues se confonde souvent au muséologues.
